Describe the present and original (if known) physical appearance

This one and a half story red brick Federal Style house is of exceptional architectural detail for its construction date circa 1850. The date of construction, its location and style of architecture is early for Buchanan County, Missouri.

The west gable end of the one and a half story main block forms the central third of the west facade and is flanked symmetrically by one-story twin wings having their gable ends perpendicular to that of the central section. There is a one-story porch on the west facade of the central section. This porch is not original but was added at the turn of the century. The columns have Doric capitals and sit on rectangular bases.

The atypical plan has no center hall and originally no interior stairway for access to the second floor. The three main facade rooms are of about equal size across the front of the house measuring sixteen and one-half (16.5) feet including walls in width by nineteen (19) feet deep for the center portion and fourteen (14) feet deep in the two twin wings. This measurement fits the early frontier practice of measuring rooms in rods rather than feet and inches. The ceilings are eight (8) foot ten (10) inches.

The three rooms (kitchen, dining room and utility room) on the rear of the house forms the long side of the ell plan of the house. These rooms have been reconstructed by the present owners and in the process an interior stairway was installed. One of the original beams of the first frame structure forms a decorative accent between the kitchen and dining room. The upstairs bedroom plank door was salvaged from the basement. The basement is located beneath the center section of the rooms on the west facade. It is reached by a limestone staircase and the walls and floor are of limestone. There is evidence this area was once used for storage of produce raised on the farm.

The original mill work was changed by Henry Brown and the present owner restored the fireplace mantles and clothes press in the north bedroom. The renovation and restoration by the present owners has been carried out with the intent of returning the home to its original condition whenever possible, but making it a comfortable home to live in during the present decade. The house is in excellent condition with fresh plaster, paint and restored fire boxes in the fireplace.

Statement of Significance (in one paragraph)

The Thompson-Brown-Sandusky House is significant under criteria B and C to wit: it is early local example of a brick Federal Style house with an atypical plan; it is also associated with William N. Thompson, an early settler of Buchanan County and Frances M. Sandusky, a locally renowned educator and philanthropist.

Following the Platte Purchase in 1837, settlement of this new fertile triangle of Missouri was rapid. Pioneers from east of the Mississippi, who had settled in the original portion of Missouri, pulled up stakes and ventured west.

The first settler in the Southwest quarter ($\frac{1}{4}$) of Section Thirty-two (32), Township Fifty-eight (58), Range Thirty-five (35) of Buchanan County was, apparently Claiborne Palmer (Parmer) who came from Ray County in 1838 and was appointed one of the Township allotting Justices in 1840.¹ Palmer's farmstead and fields are annotated on the early surveyors map of Buchanan County, an 1855 copy of which is on file at the City of St. Joseph Engineering Department. Palmer was probably one of the "sod-busters" who came to areas early and then moved on, since he is shown in the 1850 census as an occupant of Holt County.

In 1842, William N. Thompson arrived in Buchanan County from Callaway County, Missouri.² Perhaps Palmer had already moved north and west and the Thompson family settled on his land. This can only be conjecture, since the patents to the land are in Thompson's name.

Thompson was a native of Kentucky, born circa 1798. Sometime around 1820, he emigrated from his native state to Missouri. His move to Missouri can be authenticated by the fact that all of his children were born in Missouri, the eldest David, being shown as age 30 in the 1850 census. The family of two adults, seven children and a household slave and her two children first lived in a log cabin which was to the east of the brick section of the house being nominated. The cabin is shown in photographs (number five) included with the nomination. Exactly when Thompson constructed his home is not known, but the assumption is the early 1850's. On January 3, 1860, Thompson died, leaving his widow and two unmarried daughters one-hundred twenty (120) acres of land which included "the homeplace". At the time of his death, Thompson was the owner of the Southeast quarter ($\frac{1}{4}$) of Section thirty-one (31), thirty-two (32) acres in the Southwest quarter ($\frac{1}{4}$) of Section thirty-one (31) and the Southwest quarter ($\frac{1}{4}$) of Section thirty-two (32) all in Township fifty-seven (57) Range Thirty-five (35) as well as one-hundred seventy-five (175) acres in Section Nine (9) and ten (10) and thirty-two (32) acres in Section Thirty-six (36) all in Township fifty-six (56) Range thirty-six (36).³

On January 7, 1864, Mrs. Thompson and the two daughters, who by this time were both married, sold "the homeplace" of 120 acres to Andrew M. Brown. On the same date, John and Harriet Thompson Gillespie sold an adjoining 50 acres to Brown.⁴

Andrew M. Brown was the son of William Smith Brown who was born in 1790 in Pennsylvania. By 1811, William Smith Brown had emigrated to Bath County, Kentucky where his eldest son, Alexander, was born. In 1823, the Brown family was increased by the birth of twin sons, William Washington and James Jackson. In 1826, or 1827, W. S. Brown moved to Decatur County, Indiana where in 1838 another son, Andrew was born. In the fall of 1839, Brown brought his family to Buchanan County where he pre-empted a quarter section of land on Sugar Creek. Sometime after settling in Missouri, Brown's first wife died and he married Martha Eastborn of Platte County in 1849. By this marriage Brown had two more sons.⁵

In August of 1864, Andrew Brown sold 160 acres of land to his elder brother William Washington. Interestingly enough the 160 acres is a different plot from that purchased by Andrew. Included is the north half ($\frac{1}{2}$) of the Southwest quarter ($\frac{1}{4}$) of Section Thirty-two (32) and the Northeast quarter ($\frac{1}{4}$) of the Southeast quarter ($\frac{1}{4}$) of Section thirty-one (31) which were involved in the 1864 sale and the Northwest quarter ($\frac{1}{4}$) of the Southeast quarter ($\frac{1}{4}$) of Section Thirty-one (31), which was disposed of under provisions of William Thompson's will. The parcel does not include the land sold to Andrew by John and his wife.⁶ In 1859, Andrew Brown had married Julia Kendley, only daughter of Mary J. Kendley a widow with extensive land holdings. Since the A. M. Browns always lived in Bloomington Township it appears that this land transaction was speculative on his part. W. W. Brown married Mary Ellen Martin of Bloomington Township in 1852. During the 1860's, before purchasing this land and home, Brown died, leaving his home and land to his widow and children, Fannie, Bell, Walter, Florence, Ollie and Hallie. To his son, Henry T. "who is crippled"⁷ he left \$900. Henry became a carpenter and developed a local reputation as a master woodworker. In May 1893, after the death of Mary Ellen Brown, Walter and his sisters sold 9 acres including the house to Henry.⁸ The alteration of interior millwork in the house probably was done while Henry was the owner.

Less than a year after he had purchased the house, Henry sold it to his brother Walter and Bertie his wife. In turn they sold the 9 acres to Florence Brown English and her husband William in 1901. In October of 1901, the Browns and the English's platted the land from King Hill to Belding and approximately 350 feet on either side of Cliff as Cedar Springs addition to the City of St. Joseph.⁹

On December 8, 1904, the house was purchased by Frances M. Sandusky, the wife of Harmon W. Sandusky, thus concluding 40 years of ownership by the Brown Family. Mrs. Sandusky, born 1876, was a native of Troy Mills, Iowa. She grew up in Leavenworth, Kansas and at the age of 18 began teaching school in Marysville, Montana. In less than two years she was principal of the school. In 1902, she married Sandusky who was a widower with two children. His daughter, Ada lived at the Cliff Street residence until her death in 1966. Sandusky, who was listed in several City Directories as a farmer died in 1932. In 1928, Mrs. Sandusky was Secretary of the St. Joseph Travelers Aid Society and in April of that year was one of the first of two women elected to the St. Joseph School Board. Mrs. Sandusky served as both vice-president and president of the School Board before retiring from it in 1934. She was appointed to the Missouri State Social Security Commission by Governor Guy B. Park. In the late 1930's and early 1940's she was a member of the Buchanan County Welfare Commission as well as several other boards and commissions in the city and county. She was a life member of the YMCA, serving on the Board beginning in 1939 and as President from 1945 to 1948. She died in 1969 at the age of 93.¹⁰ The Sandusky's elder daughter, Gertrude reitred from a business career and returned to St. Joseph, living at the Cliff Street home until her death in 1971. In 1971, the current owners purchased the home from the Sandusky estate and have systematically renovated and restored this frontier residence.

The survey of Missouri's Historic sites is based on the selection of sites as they relate to theme studies in Missouri's Hisotry as outlined in "Missouri State Historic Preservation Plan." The Thompson, Brown, Sandusky Home, therefore, is being nominated to the National Register of Historic Places as an example of the themes of "Architecture" and Exploration and Settlement."
